*Here is no ancient pile all stained and scarred
By centuries of rain and blasting storm,
Yet in the few short years since thou wast born,
No backward look thy spreading fame has marred.
Forth went thy sons when jealous races warred,
Died at Lameta, and mid Flanders' corn,
While Achi Baba grim and battle worn
O'er Milton graves eternally keeps guard.
Proud were the man whose noble name you bear
Could he behold the inmates of your walls,
O'er half a continent thy summons calls
Fathers to place their sons in Milton's care,
Throughout this land thy cry rings loud and long.
"Oh, quit yourselves like men. Be strong, be strong!"*

EDITORIAL.

The past twelve months have been a period of steady progress, and the School has cause for satisfaction at its achievements in the examination halls and on the playing fields. During the last year or two it has not always been easy for boys leaving school to find immediate employment, so that it is particularly gratifying to note that all the boys who left this school last December obtained employment without having to wait too long with nothing to do.

The School has lost a good friend by the death of Mrs. M. MacLean who had acted as secretary to the School Council since its inception. We extend our deepest sympathy to Mr. MacLean and his family in their sad loss.

groping for water in an inhospitable soil, whose last drop of the precious fluid disappeared with the coming of the sun.

It is the week before the rains, and to motor through such a scene of inertness seems like breaking some spell. The dust flies up covering the weary vegetation with a level grey layer, while to the eddies of air left behind, the bushes respond with creaking reluctance. The insects cease to hum, the birds to sing, but the spell is too strong, the sun's power infinite, and it does not take long for the scene to sink back into its accustomed state of coma.

The towns laze their way through the hot, dry days, and restlessly sleep away the nights. The clatter of the typewriters appears to be the only live sound in a land where even the buildings nod and tremble in the noon-day heat, as if they, too, wanted to lie down, and drowse for ever propped on beds of amaranth and moly. The streets are empty and deserted, and a stranger from a far off land where cooling streams never cease to flow from snowy sources, might easily misunderstand, and think that the place was stricken by the plague. Inertia is the order of the day, and none dare disobey for fear that health may suffer.

Then, one evening, about a week later, far away in the distance, is heard a remote rumbling, no greater than a dog's growl when disturbed over a bone from which he has not yet extracted the last iota of goodness. Slowly the noise grows, coming nearer as if one kopje is picking it up, and flinging it to the next, only to be picked up and passed on again. This noise is from the war drums of the Gods, sending sound echoing through space, reverberating midst the misty valleys of Nowhere "ancestral voices prophesying war." Life with the immortals is somewhat strained, and, tired of venting their anger on earth-bound creatures, civil war has broken out.

With a terrifying crash the battle starts, and hundreds of gleaming spears flash between the two armies, of Good and Evil. With resounding crashes the Gods hurtle their thunderbolts far into the masses of the opponents, regardless of life and limb. The two sides clash again and again, but neither gives, each keeps his ground. Hundreds fall, their blood streaming away below them, but still the battle rages. The sun hides his head and night comes.

On earth dogs howl pitifully, people close their doors and windows, shuddering, and cats leave their love affairs in a hurry. Nature stands silent, mutely waiting.

Slowly those of the ebon shades are forced to give way to the superior armed masses of the opposers, until, in a last charge, amidst a horrible slaughter, they break and flee, hotly pursued. They are at last seen crumbling, and disappearing away to the West, their life blood whirling out far behind.

Came the dawn. The papers say, "Rain for Bulawayo." That is all; there is no mention of the battle that has made history for the gods—but then machines have not got imaginations.

Our own eyes can verify the news by looking around. Everywhere is cool and fresh; the flowers, "as at parade under their colours stand displayed," lifting up their waving heads, in praise of their Creator. Even the people stir again; the rains have washed the cobwebs of inactivity from the sun-soaked heads, and Energy has taken its place as King, until such time as the Sun shall return again with overwhelming forces.

H. C. F. WILKS.

RUGBY NOTES.

There was a distinct revival in the standard of football played in the School last season, which was very gratifying after the depressing series of defeats at the hands of our great rivals, Plumtree, last year. Under the captaincy of A. King the XV. settled down to a very useful side which would have given a better account of itself had it been less handicapped by lack of weight. The lightness of the side was particularly noticeable in the matches against the local 2nd XV's where the scrums were invariably lost. The most pleasing feature of the season's play was the very high standard of tackling reached early in the year and maintained throughout.

The second, third and Under XV. sides also acquitted themselves creditably during the season, the third XV's victory over Plumtree in Bulawayo being particularly noticeable for the fast, open and clever play it produced.

43rd Plumtree Match.

10th June, B.A.C. Ground.

Won 5—4.

This, the first inter-school match of the season and the first round of the Honey Cup Competition, provided some exciting football. The School scored first; taking advantage of a fumble by one of the Plumtree boys, N. Crossley followed up to touch down between the posts. Shortly afterwards Plumtree scored a drop goal. The play though exciting was not of a very high standard—Plumtree were getting more of the ball than we were, but their handling was poor. For the last twenty minutes of the game Plumtree were continually on the offensive and the spectators were given an exhibition of defensive play by the School such as has been seldom seen in Bulawayo. Baron in the centre was everywhere, while Crossley at fullback was wonderfully safe. On the run of the play we must possibly consider ourselves fortunate to have won the match, but to those who say that "Milton were lucky" we can only reply that we were not the attackers—Plumtree got the ball often enough to score a dozen times, but . . .

44th Plumtree Match.

15th July, at Plumtree.

Won 9—5.

In this match the School really rose to the occasion splendidly and the final result in no way flattered our team. This was one of the finest Milton - Plumtree matches there has been for some time, for the football on both sides was considerably better than in the opening match of the season. Both sides saw plenty of the ball and endeavoured to throw it about in true "Wallaby" style, while the tackling was very good. Plumtree scored first as the result of a clever break by one of their centres who got over the line between the posts. The kick was easily converted. Our first try came as a result of a tremendous forward struggle which was ultimately rewarded by Dickson touching down near the corner. The kick failed. This was an excellent try, every forward working for it like a Trojan. After the interval both sides strove with might and main to secure a safe lead, but the defence held until A. Smith, receiving the ball on the wing, scored a spectacular try after running half the length of the field. Not long after E. D. K. MacLean landed a fine penalty goal from a long way out to make the score 9—5 in our favour. Plumtree, however, were by no means beaten and came back to the attack with renewed vigour, giving us several anxious moments. McAdam missed a drop goal by inches. When the final whistle went both teams had played themselves to a standstill, and thus ended a memorable game.

45th Plumtree Match.

they played the more open game, while our boys lacked the fire which had distinguished their display the week before. Except for a brief spell during the second half, we never looked convincing and were beaten by the better team on the day's play.

The Honey Cup Final.

29th July, played at Salisbury.

Lost 3—5.

This is the first time that Prince Edward have defeated us in the Honey Cup Final, and while we perhaps can be counted unfortunate to have lost the game in the last few minutes of the match, there is no doubt that Prince Edward deserved their victory. The game was played at a very fast pace, the play going from one end of the field to the other with lightning rapidity. Prince Edward were perhaps the heavier side, which meant that they got the ball from the scrums more often than we did, but once again our defence was not found wanting, the tackling being deadly. Mention must be made of the display of Crossley at full-back. Throughout the season Crossley had played well, doing better in each succeeding match, while his performance in this game was a fitting conclusion to a good record. He did not make a mistake, his handling, kicking and tackling being almost as good as one can expect from any schoolboy. Our score came from a clever wheel of the scrum right on the goal line, one of the forwards dropping on the ball. Prince Edwards scored near the end of the game—the result of a clever break by their captain, Jenkinson, who had played a fine game throughout. We congratulate Prince Edward School on winning the Cup for the second year in succession.

The following represented the School in the various inter-school games:—

D. Crossley; P. Pitman, N. Crossley, H. Baron, A. Smith and A. Macdonald; H. Rundle, J. Whamond; A. G. King (captain), E. D. K. MacLean, R. Dickson, A. L. Painting, R. Foster, B. Bawden, J. Brown, D. Milne, M. Rosen and M. Salis.

J. Meltzer, the vice-captain, was unfortunately injured in a match in the early part of the season and was unable to play thereafter. He was a great loss to the side, for his strong running on the wing would have been very valuable.

Colours were awarded to the following: A. L. Painting, J. Brown, R. Dickson, A. L. Smith, B. Bawden, H. Rundle, J. Whamond, D. Crossley, D. Milne, H. Baron and E. D. K. MacLean.

CRICKET NOTES.

The 1932-1933 season was a very successful one, not only from the point of view of Inter-school matches, but also because of the enthusiasm shown in School games, a noticeable and welcome feature being the greater number of day-boys who have made a point of turning up regularly to their games.

R. A. G. Stupart was captain in 1932, and his inspiring leadership culminated in the Milton-Plumtree match of November, 1932, when he led his team to victory. G. Burne, the vice-captain, gave him splendid support, and it was his brilliant bowling which paved the way to victory over Plumtree.

Caps and colours for 1932 were awarded to R. A. G. Stupart, G. H. Burne, J. R. Hesom, R. Michell, A. M. Mansell, W. Wilson, D. Marshall, A. M. Kelly, A. W. Coley, D. Milne, and N. A. Shackleton.

The XI was sadly depleted at the beginning of this year by the loss of such experienced players as Stupart, Burne, Michell and Kelly, and consequently the 1st XI was rather a youthful side. D. Marshall captained the side in a very convincing manner and gave several fine exhibitions of batting, while his wicket-keeping was consistently good. The vacancies in the team were filled by I. Rhynas, N. Crossley, D. Crossley, A. Macdonald and F. Maughan. Rhynas made great strides as a batsman, while D. Crossley, with the bat, and Maughan, with the ball, showed promise.

At the beginning of this term the XI suffered further depletion by the loss of Marshall, Hesom and Maughan, but Kelly, who was kept out of the side last season by injuries, made a welcome re-appearance as captain. The vacancies have been filled by Thal, Goodyer, A. Smith, B. Bawden, J. Bawden.

Meltzer has not only proved himself a very able captain, but has demonstrated that his enforced rest last season has by no means impaired his bowling skill.

Caps and colours for 1933 have been awarded to D. Crossley, A. Macdonald and B. Thal.

Mr. G. W. Ledeboer once again coached the various XI's with great success and, as usual, inculcated in the members of these teams the keenness and enthusiasm which he himself has for the game.

The 39th Plumtree Match.

Played on the School Upper Field
on November 4th and 5th.

WON by 3 wickets.

Plumtree batted first, but brilliant bowling by Burne caused a collapse, four wickets being down with only eight runs on the board. Fuller batted valiantly and received a little support from A. McAdam and Ledebor, but the side were all out for 63, Burne returning the remarkable analysis of 7 wickets for 29 runs.

The School opened rather shakily and three wickets were down for 41, but Coley, Wilson, Stupart and Burne batted well, and it was chiefly due to their efforts that the total of 162 was reached. Walker was the outstanding Plumtree bowler, taking 6 wickets for 44 runs.

Plumtree fared much better in their second innings, Fuller compiling a brilliant 77, and I. McAdam batted very well for 61. The Plumtree tail wagged and the total of 266 was reached, leaving the School 168 runs to get in just over 3 hours. A feature of this innings was the brilliant fielding of Kelly on the leg boundary.

Kelly and Marshall opened in a confident manner and put on 39 for the first wicket. Wickets then fell at frequent intervals, and when Burne went in to bat the score was 92 for 6; the atmosphere was electric, it was anyone's game, and further, at this stage the time factor entered. Burne and Mansell pulled the game out of the fire, both playing delightful cricket, and when Burne's wicket fell at 131, the School needed 37 runs in just over 40 minutes. Stupart joined Mansell and played a wonderful captain's innings, the necessary runs being made without further loss and with 20 minutes to go. It was an exciting finish to a brilliant match, which held everyone's interest right to the last ball bowled. The fielding on both sides reached a high standard, that of Plumtree in the last innings being brilliant.

THE 40th Plumtree Match.

Played at Plumtree, 3rd and 4th March, 1933.

LOST by nine wickets.

Plumtree won the toss and sent Milton in to bat. This policy met with success, five wickets being down for only ten runs. Rhynas and Coley then became associated and carried the score to 41 when Rhynas was caught on the leg side. Milne and Hesom gave Coley splendid support and Coley was last man out with the total at 122. Coley gave a very fine exhibition of batting, a feature of which was his rock-like defence. The Plumtree bowlers were consistently good and were handled in a very able manner by McAdam.

McFarlane and Fuller opened confidently against the bowling of Hesom and Macdonald, and put on 64 for the first wicket, when McFarlane put his pads in front of a straight one from Hesom, Fynn and Fuller then carried the total to 106, when Macdonald got Fuller caught at square leg. Wickets then fell at frequent intervals and Coley secured the last three wickets at a cost of 26 runs. Special mention must be made of Hesom and Macdonald for arduous and stout-hearted bowling.

Again disaster met the early batsmen in the School's 2nd innings, but good batting by Wilson, Mansell and Coley saved the side from collapse, and the side were all out for 159, leaving Plumtree 83 runs to make for victory.

Plumtree knocked off the necessary runs for the loss of McFarlane's wicket, thus winning by the comfortable margin of nine wickets.

A feature of this match was the excellent batting of Fuller, who gave good exhibitions in both innings.

The Schools are indebted to Messrs. Candler and MacIngram, who umpired throughout the match.

The 41st Plumtree Match.

Played on the School Upper Field
October 20th and 21st.

WON by 66 runs.

Winning the toss, Plumtree put the School in to bat and were rewarded with almost immediate success, the opening bowlers, Simpson and Fuller, assisted by a strong cross-wind, swinging with effect to take two wickets with only eight runs scored. Then Rhynas and Mansell checked the rot and took the score to 60, Mansell batting really well to pass his half-century, and remained until the 7th wicket. The middle batsmen, however, did little, and the score was only 123 when the last man, Thal, went in to keep his captain company. Meltzer was playing well, and Thal kept his end up, and the pair brought the total to 154 before the innings closed, Meltzer being 29 not out.

Fuller and McFarlane opened well for Plumtree, and took the score to 23 before the first wicket fell. Fuller played confidently for his 34, but after his departure Meltzer struck a patch and got four of the early wickets inexpensively. The Plumtree score did not look too well with five wickets down for 78. The skipper then went in and advanced the score by hitting out, but the score was only 111 with seven wickets down. Then Mackay and Simpson saved the situation, and put on 51 for the next wicket, while the last man and Simpson, who was undefeated, added another 20 to give Plumtree the lead on the first innings. A feature of the afternoon's play was the fine wicket-keeping of Thal.

The School began their second innings on Saturday morning, 28 runs in arrears, Crossley and Goodyer opening against the bowling of Simpson and Fuller. Simpson met with early success, getting Crossley caught in the gully before a run was scored. Three wickets were down for 46, but thanks to MILTON SCHOOL 1st XI., 1933.

Standing: B. Thal, A. Coley, D. Crossley, D. Milne, A. Smith, A. Macdonald, J. Wilson, C. Goodyer.
Seated: Mr. D. C. Ferrer, I. Rhynas (vice-capt.), J. Meltzer (capt.), A. Mansell, Mr. G. W. Ledeboer (Coach).

Rhynas and Coley, the School made a good recovery, and these boys carried the score to 106 before being separated. The cricket at this stage reached a very high standard, the bowling and fielding being good and the batting delightful to watch. Wickets fell at frequent intervals, but Meltzer made a gallant effort to stop the rot and he was last man out with the score at 167. Mackay was the outstanding bowler and he returned the good figures of 5 for 34.

Plumtree was faced with the not too difficult task of making 140 runs for victory. Sensational cricket followed and four wickets were down for 18 runs at the end of half an hour's play, three falling without any addition to the score. Mackay was the only batsman who played the bowling with confidence. Good bowling, backed up by splendid fielding, and brilliant work by Thal behind the stumps, caused the collapse, and the last Plumtree wicket fell in the second over after tea, thus giving the School victory by 66 runs.

THE LIBRARY FUND.

To the Trustees of the late Mr. Charelik Salomon the School is indebted for a very generous donation of £100 towards the Library Fund. The money is to be spent in buying books which will lay the foundation of a more extensive reference library than the School at the moment possesses. We take this opportunity of gratefully acknowledging the gift.

JUNIOR SCHOOL NOTES.
CRICKET, 1933.

The season is but half way through and there are prospects that those boys who have played for the School and under 14 XI.s will develop into fine cricketers.

Unfortunately we are losing most of them and we shall miss Eric Hore, the captain, in particular—a really good all-rounder, who has developed an excellent style and set a good example to the team as a whole. His best scores are 84 not out and 51.

Plumtree visited the school for the first match and won an exciting game by 25 runs. Scores: Plumtree 146, School 121 (E. Hore 84 not out).

The under 14 and under 13 XI.s have each won their matches against Technical and Public School respectively.

The School XI. spent an enjoyable day at Matopos on Armistice Day, losing the match with colours flying. Scores: 1st innings, Rhodes Estate Prep. School, 118; School,

The last year has been a critical one for the world and though the prophets sing of a dawning of prosperity, we are not yet out of the darkness. It would be no less than fair to say that the Old Boys' Association has during the year experienced much of the gloom which has hung over most efforts and institutions. It has suffered, perhaps, in its vitality, for it is still at its first steps and has no long years of tradition to carry it over by force of its momentum into better things.

It has suffered, but it has not gone under. We can express nothing but admiration for those of the Old Boys' Executive who have carried on in spite of the facts of a depleted revenue and other obstacles to win new laurels for the Association; in the worlds of sport and social functions which it serves. No less can we admire that small band who strove to preserve during the greater part of the year the flicker of life they had created in the "Interest Circle." It has been held against them that they were too ambitious; or with the words heard, alas, only too often at our meetings, that "the time was not yet ripe for such a venture." We think, however, that in this, as in all things, there is pioneering to be done, and that a useful purpose has been served if they have orientated even a few to think sometimes of serious things. We bid them remember that the seeds of things are small enough, often
